

The British sector of the Western Front, 1914-18: injuries, treatments and the trenches – RAG Overview

Section	Detail	Notes completed?	RAG understanding	Assessments
Key Topic 5: Sources and the Examination
Utility of sources	Source Utility
	Provenance
	Judging sources
Historical inquiry	Understanding the content of a source
	Further questioning
	Supporting sources – different types and their use

Key Topic 5.1 The British sector on the Western Front
5.1 Medicine in the early C20th	Understanding infection and the move towards aseptic surgery
	The development of x-rays
	The development of blood transfusions and the storage of blood
5.2 The Context of the British sector of the Western Front	The outbreak of war and why there was a stalemate
	The Trench system
	The Ypres Salient, the Somme, Arras and Cambrai
	Problems of transport and communications
5.3 Conditions requiring medical treatment on the Western Front	Medical problems
	Rifles and explosives
	Gas Attacks
5.4 The Work of the RAMC & FANY	The system of transport and the stages of treatment
5.5 The significance for the Western Front for experiments in surgery and medicine	New techniques in the treatment of wounds and infection
	Use of mobile x-rays
	Blood Transfusions
	Head injuries
	Plastic surgery			